H. E. HAMSHER, J. N. MORSE.
HAMSHER & MORSE PUBLISHERS.
DECATUR, ILLINOIS.
RETURNED AT THE POST OFFICE AT DECATUR, ILL.,
AS SECOND CLASS MAIL MATTER.
WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEB. 11, 1890.
The Peoria Transcript of this morning has a long article favoring the nomination of Hon. Greenbury L. Fort for governor.
Ohio has been recognized by the administration. A man from that state has just been appointed consul at Basle, Switzerland.
SOUTHERN luxuries are becoming more and more common in the north. Canada had another earthquake the other day.
On Monday afternoon the great Theater Royal at Dublin was destroyed by fire; loss about $1,000,000. Eight persons were killed during the progress of the fire and thirteen others more or less injured.
Raising Wages.
The Philadelphia and Reading railroad company has decided to increase the wages of its employees five per cent., and add ten cents a ton to the price of coal. This is but a natural result of the improved condition of business since the resumption of specie payment. During the long period of stagnation following after the panic of 1873 prices of all commodities went down even more rapidly than wages. And, now that business has revived and prosperity has returned to the country, it is but natural that there should be an upward movement in both prices and wages. The example of the Reading railroad company, as to the wages of its employees, is worthy of the serious consideration of other railroad companies. Workingmen have shared with all other classes in the evils of business depression; and it is but just and fair that they should now share in the benefits of business prosperity. Employers, when making money, can afford to pay better wages than when their profits were reduced to a minimum quantity. If they cut down wages and salaries in hard times, then they ought reasonably to raise them in good times. There is a law of equity in respect to the rights of labor, as well as in respect to those of capital; and when justly and impartially applied to both it produces harmony in the industrial system of society.
A WRITER in the Graphic completes some interesting figures of the cost of maintaining European armies. In 1865 Germany contrived to exist with a budget of $156,000,000. In 1879 that figure rose to $330,000,000. The heaviest budgets to-day are those of France and Russia. It costs France $395,000,000 to carry on the business of the nation. It costs Russia $535,000,000. England and Holland alone of all European states show some decrease in their national debts. The total debts of the states have risen from $13,130,000,000 to $21,620,000,000. Nearly a third of the total expenditures of Europe is spent in maintaining armies. In this respect Russia stands first, and England follows; then comes France, and next Germany. Since the above was published come the French estimates for 1881. These estimates show no diminution. The expenditure is estimated at 2,773,391,474 francs. Of this sum the war department eats up 874,000,000 francs, being an increase of 6,500,000 over last year; and the navy department eats up 168,000,000 francs, this being an increase of 4,500,000.
FACTS.
EDS. REPUBLICAN.—I rather like the tone of "Temperance's" last article, and as it is thought by a good many that she is a woman, I at once withdraw my demand that she "stand up and fight like a man." So let us proceed to facts. The fact is that Decatur has only partially tried the no-license system for three or four months, and this is not long enough to test any plan; and it is also a fact that our present police force is not in favor of no-license, and therefore, under such a police force, no one can expect such a law to be fairly tested. Therefore it is a fact that all charges against the no-license law as a failure are preposterous. Give us a marshal whose heart is in his work, and give us at least one year before you demand satisfactory results. Very few good crops of anything but weeds can be grown in two or three months. Now for some more facts. Justice Peake's docket shows that from May 8, 1877, to Jan. 1st, 1880, he has had before him 254 cases of drunkenness. "Squire Albert, in that length of time, had 236 cases, and "Squire Curtis 10 cases—making 500 cases of drunkenness in thirty-two months under the license system. For I claim that as yet we have not really been under the no-license system, and never can be unless we have a marshal whose sympathies are with the law. But what is a very significant fact is that, during the month of November last, when the law was enforced to some extent, Justice Peake had but one case before him. If in thirty-two months we had 500 cases of drunkenness (besides as many more, probably, that were not arrested), under the license system, how many would we probably have had under no-license? Evidently license is a failure in "controlling" this "drunkenness and death." Let us try something else for a year, for it won't be any worse, and may be better. But even the short time that we have been under a partial no-license develops some startling facts. Go to the books of the supervisor of the poor, and see the difference between Nov., Dec., and Jan., and the three corresponding months a year ago. Facts won't lie, and it will be found that the amount of pauperism has decreased more than one-half. Why not? Liquor takes a man's money, his time, his ability to work, and thereby makes him and his family paupers. Give us policemen that don't have to go to Idlewild on Sunday, but that will look after the vacant lots in town, give us a sheriff and constables that will look after Idlewild and the brewery; give us officers that will enforce the law and we will give you facts that will overwhelm you. I still insist that our police can stop public drunkenness just as well under the jug law as under the city law, and I also assert that gallons of liquor are given away in order to create a boom against no-license. No sane person believes that as much liquor can be sold without license as with it. I object to a "license so heavy that none but responsible men can procure it." I am too much of a democrat for that. We must not have any class legislation. Don't shut any man out of any business because he is poor. Don't make the rich richer and the poor poorer. Treat all alike. If whiskey selling is right, don't charge anything for doing it; if it is wrong, don't prostitute law by legalizing a wrong. As to "will nots" and "shall nots" I only refer "Temperance" to the ten commandments. He or she will find several "shall nots" there, and also on our statute books there are several "shall nots." When people all get good and law-abiding "will nots" will be in order, but till then "shall nots" will have to be used. The fact is that we need different officers. We need more time and better facilities for testing no-license. We need the encouragement of "Temperance" and all other good citizens. The fact is outside of the liquor given away we do not have anything like the drunkenness we had under the license law, and another fact is that every saloon-keeper will vote for license candidates at the coming election. How does "Temperance" like that kind of company.

W. R. GOODWIN.
WOMEN THAN THE YELLOW FEVER.
A Texan's Experience with "Pinafore" in New York.
New York Graphic.
That night I retired early and tried to sleep, but all night long some idiot in the next room was endeavoring to relate, in a tuneful style, how he had polished the handle of something or other so carefully that he got to be the ruler of the Queen's naves (as he called it). Well I suppose it's all right; but if I had been the Queen for about fifteen minutes that night I've have polished his head.
The next morning I awoke to find "Pinafore" stealing through the shutters with the first beams of sunlight, and, in a fit of desperation, I rushed to the window and emptied a pitcher of water on the first thing that passed, which happened to be a Skye terrier pup, with a big Englishman tied to it. Entering the barber shop I asked for a shave, but no sooner was I seated than the murderous barber began to lather that confounded soap all over me. I submitted like a martyr until he bawled out:
"Sing, hey, the merry maiden and the tar!"
Now, I can stand almost anything, from measles to mother-in-law, but when he began to talk about smearing a young maiden over with tar I concluded to stop him before he called for feathers also. With that chivalrous sentiment hovering around within me, I arose almost unanimously, and exclaimed in a tone that would be worth $40 to a congressman:
"See here, if you say another word I'll sing, 'Hey, the wild Texan and a six-shooter'—but before I could finish he lit out of the door, as though he had urgent business at the equator which required his attention within the next half hour.
I went into the dining room for my breakfast, and three of the ugliest waiters that were ever born stood behind my chair and hummed "Pinafore," while I ran over the bill of fare and wondered if Job ever visited a city where one song was sung by every creature that could sing and by about seven hundred steamboat loads that could not. I passed by an establishment around the corner, and thought that a glass of beer would soothe me, but—would you believe it—that heathen Dutchman just settled himself against the counter and began:
"I was named leddie puttergum, Schwoed leddie puttergum, Und I doaned told vhat's der reason!"
He was the first genuine buttercup I had seen since the war, and I was glad to note that the plant gave evidence of such healthy growth, to say nothing of perfume. He weighed about 300 and emitted an odor of beer and cabbage that would have made a case of hydrophobia hesitate a long time before it tackled him.
I had seen a very pretty but rather thin young lady cross the street from our hotel, and while Mrs. "Mero" was taking her afternoon nap I slipped out to get a glimpse of the fair damsel. I had just stationed myself on the corner in front of her house as if waiting for a car, and was getting ready to look distinguished when she went off just like the others:
"I wear knee breeches, and I don't like pants!"
I went to my room smoking like a locomotive, and woke Mrs. "Mero" suddenly. With a moment's reflection I would as soon have resurrected an earthquake. Not that Mrs. "Mero" has any temper at all. Oh, no! she hasn't a bit, but she can do some of the tallest acting on record when she pretends to be mad.

She arose from that bed like a fire engine with a boa constrictor tied about it.
Whenever I see her begin to tramp around the room like a Texan steered to a trotting sulky, and stop occasionally to kick something over the stove, I know that she's getting ready for a rehearsal, and, in order not to disturb her, I usually meander out of the back window. Things began to look that way this time, and I meandered.
On this occasion I concluded to go out on the roof, as I didn't want any supper, and besides it was cooler; but I hadn't been there five minutes before the hired girl in the house across the way began to screech something about her "sisters and her cousins and her aunts," and to gouge on an old spavined piano, as if she had swallowed the whole caboodle of her kinfolks and they were all trying to crawl out through her fingers at once.
That tune has got a grip on New York that nothing less than the yellow fever, or a toot on Gabriel's horn can shake off.

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.
NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS: All subject matter intended for this column should be addressed to E. B. Brown or Miss M. F. Fulton, Decatur, or J. Trainer, Blue Mound, Ill.
WASHINGTON BOOM.
Below we give a brief analysis of the life and public services of Washington. The teacher can elaborate upon this or curtail it at pleasure. If the analysis is followed in the schools we would recommend a brief notice of each subject, only just enough to get the facts; then let the best readers in the school produce short sketches of our subject from books, magazines, etc. Find all the poems you can about him, drill four or five in concert reading in private, and give the school a pleasant surprise by having them rehearse in his presence. Read some anecdote of him yourself. Get all the spies into the exercise that you possibly can, but manage to have it agreeably presented.
Make the exercise short, if you are obliged to have it both forenoon and afternoon to get through.
Let every teacher in the county do something in favor of the "Washington Boom" and lend enthusiasm in the school work. Tell your pupils that Friday, the 20th, will be observed as his birthday, instead of the 22nd. It will add very much to the exercise to sing some appropriate song. Graded songs, No. 3, p. 23, contains a good children's song:
Born—When? Where?
Education—Common school training; special drill in surveying; religious instruction.
Disposition—Honest? proof. Private account during the war. Truthful? proof. Story of the little hatchet. Unassuming? proof. Attempt to prevent his appointment as commander-in-chief of the army. Christian? proof. Prayer for the army.
Habits—Industrious. Sportive; hunting, fishing and riding. Punctual.
French war. Sent from Williamsburg to Ft. LeBoef. Object, to carry a letter; result, report.
Battle of Ft. Mifflin. Braddock's defeat. Saves the army.
Private life. Married whom? Farming. Judge of county court. Member of Virginia legislature. Member of congress. Appointment. Nomination by John Adams. Charge of the army. Cambridge, Mass. Siege of Boston; result. Goes to New York; why? Retreats to the Hudson; crosses to N. Y., in condition of the army. Trouble with Lee. Battle of Trenton. Awaits on Rahl. Soldier lost in the Christian! Battle of Princeton. Morristown. Meets Lafayette. Battle of Brandywine. Germantown. Valley Forge. Sufferings, etc. Mrs. Washington and the soldiers. Battle of Monmouth. Visits his home. Siege of Yorktown; treatment of French soldiers. Offered emperorship. Resigns command; retires to private life. Called to take command of army.
Death—Where? How? (A warrior, a statesman, a Christian).
Burial—Where? How? (Family vault).
NOTES.
Oakley holds weekly institutes now. Nautic reports a good attendance and more enthusiasm than in the past. Thirty-one teachers have ordered the state questions for the 20th. A few more copies can be furnished.
TEACHERS' MEETING.
DECATUR, Feb. 7, 1890.
Meeting called to order by Mr. Philbrook. The president being absent, Mr. Gantz was called to the chair.
I. E. Brown and E. A. Morgan being absent, John Smith conducted an exercise in history. Miss Lucy Irwin gave an excellent exposition of the method of teaching primary geography.
Mr. Philbrook conducted a recitation in arithmetic, subject, "Compound Numbers."
Programme for March as follows: School Exercises—Supt. Trainer. Decimal Fractions—D. W. Stookey. Different Uses of Infinitives—Miss Josie Shea.
Complete Analysis of Compound Sentences—S. McBride.
On motion adjourned.
S. McBride, Secretary.

A NEW weekly paper has started in Davenport, Iowa. The Davenport Herald. It says: "Our nomination and the nomination of by far the largest majority of the honest citizens of these United States is for president, Ulysses S. Grant; for vice president, James G. Blaine. That is the ticket to win, it cannot be beat, it is our ticket, it is the people's ticket, and no populi coo dei is just as true to-day as it ever was. At any rate we are for Grant."

TELEGRAPHIC WASHINGTON NEWS.
MURDER AT PEORIA.
Mardi-Gras Festivities.
DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—President and Mrs. Hayes this evening gave their annual reception in honor of the diplomatic corps. The guests included, in addition to the members of the diplomatic corps, all the prominent civil, military and naval officers, senators and representatives, and their ladies. The reception was one of the most brilliant ever given at the executive mansion.
PEORIA, ILL., Feb. 10.—At 11:30 this morning, Jacob Frye, for seventeen years a dealer at the Stock Yards, Chicago, but since last fall a resident of this city, was shot and instantly killed by Lou McKinney, his son-in-law. McKinney has been threatening to kill him for some time, and meeting him to-day on Main street, in front of the Mercantile Library Building, shot him dead.
HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 10.—An engine, tender and baggage car on the Pictou Branch Railway ran off the track to-day, about a mile from New Glasgow, tearing up 100 feet of rails, throwing the engine and tender on one side and the car on the other, over an embankment of forty feet, crushing the driver, James Cameron, almost severing his left leg between the knee and hip. The leg had to be amputated before he got from under the car. He will probably die.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 10.—Rex arrived yesterday and was received loyally. The procession included a body guard of United States troops and local military. First came the band of the Royal Household, then the Assyrian warriors driven in chariots, followed by generals, priests, astrologers and other attaches; then Rex, as Shalonsaneor the Assyrian conqueror. The royal chariot was closely followed by his majesty's favorite band of the Thirtieth Infantry and a royal division of troops. The pageant proper came next, in the shape of twenty magnificent cars representing the four elements of creation. Then came the burlesque of the German Leidertafel and the Shorty Phunny Phellows and miscellaneous masquers. The streets along the line of the procession were crowded with spectators. Thousands of strangers are in the city. The Rex reception at exposition hall to-night is a great success, there being 5,000 present. The procession of the Mystic Krewes of Comus to-night illustrated the phases in the Aztec people and their conquest by Cortez, by sixteen tableaux on floats. The exhibition concluded with tableaux at the opera house and a grand ball, which was attended by 2,000 people. It was a magnificent affair.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 10.—A postal card was received by the prosecuting attorney of this county, a few days ago, from St. Louis, that may prove the key of the great Baldwin murder mystery. The writer signs his name as Franz Hart. He is evidently a German, and says he was an eye witness of the Baldwin murder. The card states that he is too poor to pay his expenses to come to Cincinnati as a witness, but when he read of the indictment of Schaller for the murder, he felt it his duty to notify the officials that he had seen the deed done. Hart offers to come to Cincinnati and testify at the trial of Schaller, if his expenses are paid by the state.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 10.—There were impromptu Mardi Gras festivities in the city to-night. Quite a brilliant ball was given to-night, at which 3,000 were present. Reports state that this has been a general holiday in Southern cities.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—The state normal school at San Jose burned to the ground early this morning. The fire was first discovered in the cupola. Suspicion of incendiarism. Loss over $500,000; insurance, $50,000.

Decatur One-Price Shoe Store.
Goods Marked in Plain Figures.
ALL accounts agree that there has been an unusual demand for cheaply made or shoddy boots or shoes. It is a very short-sighted policy to buy or sell such stuff. In using these goods you pay out twice as much money in a year for your boots and shoes, and you never have a pair that fits, because manufacturers of the cheap goods give no attention to the fit of their work. We trust that people who buy shoddy work will turn over a new leaf in this matter and practice true economy, by making quality the first consideration of their purchases of boots and shoes. At the popular Boot and Shoe House of L. L. Ferriss you can get prime, solid and serviceable Boots and Shoes for a little money as you can buy cheaper grades elsewhere. His goods are made from the choicest materials, are of improved styles of lasts, graded in size to fit the human foot, properly and to stand up to the hardest wear. Mr. Ferriss does a one-price cash business, and can afford to sell very low. You can find the largest assortment in the city of strictly good goods at Ferriss' New Shoe Store, 13 East Main street, just across the street from his old store and on the east of Mullikin's Bank.
